

EYES ONLY

13 November 1954

MEMORANDUM FOR: Mr. Carey

FROM: Assistant Director, OCD

SUBJECT: 3rd day of the Clark Committee task
force in OCD

25X1A 1. The Biographic Register was inspected this morning from 9:15 until 12:00 by Col. Miller and Mr. Magruder, accompanied by [REDACTED] 25X1A of [REDACTED] and my Executive, [REDACTED] 25X1A

25X1A 2. The Chief of the Register, [REDACTED] conducted the briefing and apparently did an excellent job. Col. Miller asked [REDACTED] to tell me that [REDACTED] had performed exceedingly well. 25X1A

25X1A 3. Most of the morning was spent in [REDACTED] office, and 25X1A relatively few questions were asked. [REDACTED]

25X1A

They asked no questions at all about other biographic intelligence units in the government.

Col. Miller wished to know whether the Register restricted itself entirely to scientists and technicians, or whether it would also hold data on financial figures and other personalities connected with industry. Told that such data were held, in support of ORR and Industrial Register, he asked if we would have anything on an industrialist [REDACTED] in 25X1A Ace. 25X1A

25X1A Thereupon Mr. Wilpers led the visitors to the French Desk, held by [REDACTED] and put the question to her. "Oh yes," she said, [REDACTED] 25X1A She pulled the dossier and it proved to be quite complete.

25X1A Col. Miller then asked how the Register handled difficult requests, when the requester knew very little about the men. "For example," he said, "I once met a man in Brussels who was teaching some scientific subject, and all I can remember is that his last name was [REDACTED] [REDACTED] took him to the Soundex file, and the clerk in charge ran down the name [REDACTED] and found seven or eight. One was a Belgian, and was coded as a teacher. When the dossier was pulled it proved to be the man the Colonel had met. 25X1A 25X1A

EYES ONLY

010178

- 2 -

4. A number of questions were put to Branch Chiefs and individual analysts, but none were critical or troublesome. Both Col. Miller and Mr. Magruder behaved in a friendly and affable manner throughout and did not, as on the preceding two days, make pointed efforts to check the accuracy of what they were told by asking the same questions of several different people.

5. Graphics Register was visited in the afternoon from 12:45 to 3:00. I accompanied them, and the briefing was handled by [REDACTED] Chief of the Register, and his Deputy, [REDACTED]

25X1A

Most of the time was spent in [REDACTED] office on an oral briefing. They got restive about 2:00, and we got up and toured the building. Questions were asked of the Branch Chiefs and several analysts, but the visitors were evidently weary and did not put much energy in it.

25X1A

25X1A

UNCLAS

25X1A

6. We got no clear impression today of any particular trends in their thinking. They made it clear to [REDACTED] this morning that they were favorably impressed by the Biographic Register, and this afternoon they seemed weary and just a bit bored. Col. Miller did ask in Graphics Register just how many people had the combination to the vault area where the photo files are kept, and asked if the charwomen could get in there when no officer was present. This was the only question which bore any relation to those of the previous days.

James M. Andrews

~~EX-101~~

~~EYES ONLY~~

18 November 1954

MEMORANDUM FOR: Mr. Carey

FROM: Assistant Director, OCD

SUBJECT: 3rd day of the Clark Committee task
force in OCD

1. The Biographic Register was inspected this morning from 9:15 until 12:00 by Col. Miller and Mr. Magruder, accompanied by [REDACTED] and my Executive, [REDACTED]

2. The Chief of the Register, [REDACTED] conducted the briefing and apparently did an excellent job. Col. Miller asked [REDACTED] to tell me that [REDACTED] had performed exceedingly well.

3. Most of the morning was spent in [REDACTED] office, and relatively few questions were asked.

[REDACTED]

They asked no questions at all about other biographic intelligence units in the government.

Col. Miller wished to know whether the Register restricted itself entirely to scientists and technicians, or whether it would also hold data on financial figures and other personalities connected with industry. Told that such data were held, in support of ORR and Industrial Register, he asked if we would have anything on an industrialist [REDACTED] in France.

Thereupon Mr. Wilpers led the visitors to the French Desk, held by [REDACTED] and put the question to her. "Oh yes," she said, [REDACTED] "She pulled the dossier and it proved to be quite complete.

Col. Miller then asked how the Register handled difficult requests, when the requester knew very little about the men. "For example," he said, "I once met a man in Brussels who was teaching some scientific subject, and all I can remember is that his last name was [REDACTED] took him to the Soundex file, and the clerk in charge ran down the name [REDACTED] and found seven or eight. One was a Belgian, and was coded as a teacher. When the dossier was pulled it proved to be the man the Colonel had met.

This document has been approved for release through the HISTORICAL REVIEW PROGRAM of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Date 5/5/92

HRP 89-2

~~EYES ONLY~~

010178

~~SECRET~~

~~EYES ONLY~~

- 2 -

4. A number of questions were put to Branch Chiefs and individual analysts, but none were critical or troublesome. Both Col. Miller and Mr. Magruder behaved in a friendly and affable manner throughout and did not, as on the preceding two days, make pointed efforts to check the accuracy of what they were told by asking the same questions of several different people.

5. Graphics Register was visited in the afternoon from 12:45 to 3:00. I accompanied them, and the briefing was handled by [REDACTED] Chief of the Register, and his Deputy, [REDACTED]

Most of the time was spent in [REDACTED] office on an oral briefing. They got restive about 2:00, and we got up and toured the building. Questions were asked of the Branch Chiefs and several analysts, but the visitors were evidently weary and did not put much energy in it.

[REDACTED]

SUMMARY

6. We got no clear impression today of any particular trends in their thinking. They made it clear to [REDACTED] this morning that they were favorably impressed by the Biographic Register, and this afternoon they seemed weary and just a bit bored. Col. Miller did ask in Graphics Register just how many people had the combination to the vault area where the photo files are kept, and asked if the charwomen could get in there when no officer was present. This was the only question which bore any relation to those of the previous days.

James M. Andrews

~~SECRET~~

~~EYES ONLY~~